SearchMaster

For more than just Court Reporting...

Although SearchMaster has been developed for the reporting profession, its abilities go far beyond its intended audience. At heart, SM is an aggregating, indexing, and searching machine of ALL things text, not just transcripts. That means that ANYTHING you can save into a text file and place in SearchMaster's folders can be archived, indexed, and made searchable. Things like your kid's schoolwork, tips and tricks for work, cool things you find on the Internet (way more descriptive than bookmarks here) and recipes, to name just a few.

Just imagine having all your favorite recipes in a single indexed and easily searchable location right at your fingertips. Don't know what to make? Type in an ingredient (or multiple ingredients if you want) and in a few seconds SearchMaster can tell you what you can make from YOUR personal recipe database! Remember, this is just an example of what is possible with software you already know and love, nothing else to purchase or learn.

REMOVE ANNOYING WINDOWS 10 NOTICES

by Scott Friend | 07.03.2016

If you're like any average Windows 7, 8 or 8.1 user, you have become accustomed to the constant annoyance of that little icon/pop-up by your clock begging you to upgrade to Windows 10. Some of you have obliged happily and others have done so accidentally, but still many more have carefully avoided the entire subject and consequently the entire system tray area so you don't accidentally click it and fall into the same trap your colleagues have. For those of you that have had enough and don't want to upgrade at all, here's a few utilities that will help you get rid of little Oliver Twist down there begging for more.
